

Media Release

Sydney, Australia, 24 May 2018: “Women in Super announce the 2018 AGSM @ UNSW Business School Executive Education scholarship winners”

At a luncheon in Sydney today, Women in Super (WIS) and the Australian Graduate School of Management (AGSM) announced the winners of the 2018 WIS and AGSM Executive Education scholarship program. The program, now in its fourth year, provides AGSM leadership Short Courses for four successful WIS members to pursue their professional development.

WIS received a significant number of high calibre applications from candidates within the super industry. This year’s successful recipients are:

- Natalie Kalouche, Head of Legal and Compliance – Local Government Super
- Miriam Herold, Head of Managed Fund Research – IOOF
- Amy Teh, National Manager, Strategy and Implementation – Colonial First State
- Jayne Ker, Executive Manager, Strategic Alliances and Key Accounts – SuperConcepts

“I would like to congratulate Natalie, Miriam, Amy and Jayne for their successful application”, said Lata McNulty, Chair of WIS NSW. “The AGSM Executive Education programs offer a great opportunity to develop professional skills. This is a wonderful example of how WIS is helping to support the pathway to leadership for our members. We are very grateful to the AGSM for once again partnering with us this year and look forward to encouraging even more members to participate in the process next year.”

Roslyn Wainwright, AGSM Executive Education Head of Corporate Programs said, “I would also like to congratulate this year’s winners and reiterate our continued support of this important program. AGSM is committed to developing the leadership potential of women in the superannuation industry. These scholarships provide a great opportunity for talented women to pursue executive education across a range of core strategic capabilities to develop strategic leadership and management skills.”

AGSM @ UNSW Business School is Australia’s leading provider of Executive Education programs and globally recognised as a builder and nurturer of leadership and management capability. The AGSM is ranked in the top 50 Executive Education Open Programs in the 2018 Financial Times Global Executive Education Rankings. The scholarship recipients will undertake a short course selected from the areas of Leadership and Management, Strategy Change and Innovation, Commercial Acumen or Communication and will receive AGSM micro-credentials upon completion.

The courses are designed and facilitated by thought leaders and faculty to build individual and organisational capability essential for success and sustainability. AGSM Short Course learning experiences combine the latest thinking and best practice within an outcome focused problem-solving environment.

The recipients will also develop their professional network gaining access to other business, government and not for profit leaders, and have an opportunity to gain insight and develop valuable contacts.

For more information regarding the scholarships, please visit the WIS website on www.womeninsuper.com.au.

Contact details

Women in Super NSW Chair – Lata McNulty

E: lata.mcnulty@gmail.com T: 0410 611 767

AGSM Media contact – Laura Martin, AGSM Brand and Communications

E: laura.martin1@unsw.edu.au T: 02 9385 0484

Women in Super advocates for a superannuation system without gender based inequity. It also seeks to provide education, training and support to women in the superannuation and wider financial services industries, and to develop and broaden women’s business, professional and personal networks.

AGSM @ UNSW Business School is Australia’s leading graduate school of management, offering innovative, experiential, world-class programs designed to equip a new generation of leaders to thrive in an ever-changing world. AGSM’s Executive Education courses are designed and facilitated by industry thought leaders and faculty to build individual and organisational capability, combining the latest thinking and best practice within an outcomes-focused problem-solving environment.
